Short description of the activity: Eaton India Foundation has developed an employability program called Garnishing Talent. Eaton India Foundation and MKSSS have signed up a MOU for implementing the Program. Garnishing Talent is an activity for S. Y. B.Tech. students, especially for those who come from vernacular background and require grooming as well as personality development.

A student who takes admission for a professional course like engineering has to have good technical skills and communication skills. India, being an English speaking country, the engineering graduates should have a good command over English. The students who get admission in Cummins College through the central admission process come from varied family background. Some of them take the school education in vernacular medium; some other students are from rural background. Such students need guidance, mentoring, help to articulate concepts, ideas in English.

With this motivation, Eaton came up with an idea to groom such students through a training program named Garnishing Talent.
